

ABSTRACT

A modular element for coating floors, walls and the like, comprises a thermoformable central layer, on an exposed face of which a top layer made either of a fabric or non fabric material is arranged, on the other face of the central layer being arranged a lower layer made of a material which can be coupled with a male portion of a tearable strip.